"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from languor, a gain of strength and activity and alertness of mind".

writes Dr. C. L. Wheeler.

Drink in Health & Vitality by taking SANATOGEN

This is the opinion that medical men have of Sanatogen; and when it is remembered that more than 25,000 physicians have written about the gratifying results they have obtained with Sanatogen, it becomes evident that you can trust this really exceptional tonic to help you, too.

Prof. Mann, formerly of Oxford University, explained the reason for the wonderful influence of Sanatogen on health, in these words:

"A building-up process goes on in the nerves after the administration of Sanatogen."

Start improving your health to-day. Take Sanatogen, and notice how fatigue and nervousness disappear. Take Sanatogen, and in a few weeks you will feel and look better than you have done for years. Follow the advice of these physicians and enjoy once more that sense of youthful health.

1,200 MILES BY SLEDGE

Record Arctic Journey

Lieutenant Martin Lindsay, the leader of the British Arctic Expedition, who, with two companions only, made a journey by dog sledge across the Greenland Ice-cap last summer, gave the second of the Royal Empire Society Christmas Lectures for Young People at the Hotel Victoria.

The object of the expedition was to map, photograph, and collect geological specimens from the unknown hinterland of East Greenland, a stretch of country 350 miles in length, where no man had previously set foot. This region is one of the most inaccessible in the world, and all previous attempts to enter it had failed. From the east-coast seaboard it is guarded by crevassed glacier valleys, and pack-ice which makes access to the coast extremely difficult, and from the west by the formidable barrier of the ice-cap, which, rising to 9,000 ft. above sea-level, stretches across the continent.

The British party chose to attack it from the west. The preliminary crossing of the ice-cap added 600 miles to an already ambitious sledging journey. The party crossed it in five weeks, and then carried through their scientific programme to the end in spite of great hardships from hunger, cold, and fatigue.

Meanwhile, two other expeditions, French and Italian, who tried to explore the common objective from the east, failed to penetrate the pack-ice to the coast. Lieut. Lindsay's party, after sledging in all 1,180 miles, for 1,080 of which they had been an entirely self-supporting party, arrived at the end of their great journey of 103 days with 2½ days' food in hand.

On arrival at an Eskimo encampment they were able to take off their clothes for the first time for fifteen weeks. A week later they were taken off by an Aberdeen fishing vessel, the Jacinth.

THE AFFAIRS OF CELLINI

The Story Of A Great Lover, A Great Artist-The Most Charming Rascal Of All Time

(By LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE)

Benvenuto trained his guns on this house and fired. A corner of the house fell.

Benvenuto Cellini is something of a musician, considerable of a philanderer and, even though only a young man, famous as a master of the goldsmith's craft. His only real love, Della Santini, is supposed to have changed her mind and to have gone away with her mother. Benvenuto has to flee from his native Florence in about the year 1525. He sets up a shop in Rome and in making a vase for the Bishop of Salamanca, unwittingly makes an enemy of him, whereupon a dozen fellow countrymen of the Bishop, Spaniards, go to steal the vase and to beat the young goldsmith to death. At his fragile door, he awaits the ruffians with a small gun he had made for bird shooting.

The prelate, who had been unable to make Benvenuto give up the vase until it was paid for, was with the Spanish ruffians, giving them instructions.

"Smash in, get the vase safely, and then have your will with the young fool!" he ordered, riding his mule close to the door to Benvenuto's quarters.

Benvenuto thrust the muzzle of his shining gun through the lattice of his door.

"Come closer, you miserable renegades!" he called, sternly. "I invite you to come closer, and I will blow out whatever silly stuff may be in your heads in lieu of brains!"

"And you, you fat old thief," Benvenuto called to the prelate, "I shall first kill you as an example of how quickly one may die at the muzzle of a gun!"

The obese prelate emitted a squawk, turned his mule and rode away as rapidly as possible. The dozen Spanish assassins hesitated and gathered in a group and a number of citizens there, hearing the shouting, gathered and learned about the trouble.

"Good for you, young sir," one of the citizens shouted, "do but kill all of the dirty renegades and we shall stand by you and see that no punishment is meted out to you."

"Stand aside while I blow their filthy heads to bits!" Benvenuto ordered, whereupon the assassins turned and hurried away, fearful both of the gun and of the citizens who shouted their support of Benvenuto.

The Bishop of Salamanca therefore missed his vase that evening and the unfortunate prelate who had so clumsily broken the handle was forced to tell him how he had taken it to Benvenuto and how Benvenuto had refused to return it until the Bishop had paid for it. The Bishop of Salamanca became furious.

Paid. When the goldsmith, Santi, learned of what had happened, he became frightened.

"I told you over and over, Benvenuto, that you would make a bitter enemy of the Bishop—now he will stop at nothing—he even may ruin me!"

"I doubt it, for I have already sent word that his threat to make mincemeat of me I had received and would duly report to the Pope."

"You would not dare!" Santi gasped.

"And even as they talked a messenger came from the Bishop to the effect that if Benvenuto would deliver the vase in person, it would be paid for.

"See?" Benvenuto laughed. "My threat about reporting to the Pope has had its effect."

"If you go with the vase, you will not come back alive. Some pretended 'accident' will happen to you," the distracted Santi warned.

But the messenger, a nobleman of Rome, assured Benvenuto that the Bishop would not harm him.

However, he put on his coat of fine chain mail beneath his outer garment and he went armed with sword and dagger, when he took the vase. A line of grim prelates glowered at Benvenuto as he came down the hall, a line on either side. It was not the Bishop who greeted him, but the same prelate who had broken the vase. At once he began to berate him and threaten him and he handed over a receipt which he insisted that Benvenuto sign at once or take the dire consequences.

"The craftsmanship of my hands is worth full value, I do not give it away nor allow it to be stolen, first pay over the money," Benvenuto replied.

The prelate retired and came back with the Bishop, himself, who raved even worse than the prelate, but finally the money was paid over and Benvenuto departed, with a feeling that the double line of guards would run him through with one of their tall spears.

The Bishop of Salamanca decided that the first blow was the best, so he reported the matter to the Pope.

"Have this hot-headed young goldsmith brought to me," the Pope ordered. The Bishop made haste to do so, delighted to think that he would be revenged.

Now it happened that this Pope was Clement VII and that formerly he had been Cardinal de Medici. When Cardinal he had been most friendly with Benvenuto's father and had had him sent to study music. But the Pope had not connected the name Benvenuto with that of Cellini. When Benvenuto was ushered into his presence his Holiness recognized him.

"So it is you—son of my good friend Giovanni!" he exclaimed. "Yes, your Holiness."

"Now, my son, tell me about this disgraceful conduct of yours in regard to the Bishop."

Benvenuto told him, nor made excuses for himself, explaining about the Bishop's sister, Lady Gimsmondo, and the manner in which the Bishop had said that he lied. He told it all, said that he was quick of temper when wronged and that if he had given his Holiness trouble, he begged forgiveness for his sins.

"Forgiven. I believe you. Now, my son, can you design for me in gold a larger and a more exquisite vase than that which the Bishop has from your hands?"

Benvenuto assured him that he could.

"Go in peace, my son. You shall not be molested, and make haste with your design of this vase, for my approval. The gold shall be supplied and the work appraised and paid for when completed."

Back at the shop of Santi that good man could scarcely believe what Benvenuto told him, for he expected that if not exiled, at least he would have to pay grievous penance.

It chanced that a patron of the shop was one Signora Gorini, a charming widow, connected with some of the noblest houses of Rome, and possessed of a great fortune.

Her admiration for the work of Benvenuto was unusual, it seemed to those in the shop of Santi, with the exception of Benvenuto. He understood well enough, for he had frequently visited her, dined with her and passed holidays in the confines of her private garden and suite. She could not marry him because she was of the nobility and would have forfeited her fortune. However, she could love him most passionately, and did.

Before Benvenuto had more than started to design the immense vase for the Pope, Santi died.

It was then that Florentine, the name of Signora Gorini, insisted that Benvenuto open his own shop. Without asking him if he could afford it—which he could, indeed, having made more of a fortune than he ever dreamed of possessing—the sweet widow brought him a great sum of money to establish his own shop, which he did.

Through this widow Benvenuto became a friend of Signor Caeserino, then Gonfalonier of Rome, and had many profitable orders for work.

Then came tragic days and dire disaster throughout most of all the states of Italy, and especially upon Rome, for the war that had broke out between Charles V and Francis I had brought this disaster and the Imperialistic Army, under the infamous and brutal Constable of Bourbon, started its ravaging march on Rome.

Allesandro, a patron of Benvenuto, begged him to captain a company of 50 heroic young fighters and defend his palace. When the enemy began to enter Rome Benvenuto and his men went to the walls by the Campo Santo and used the heavy arquebus. An unusually tall man directing the ravage of a family in a near house, made an excellent target—and Benvenuto directed his heavy gun on him, killing him and causing such consternation among them that it was evident a great leader had fallen. Benvenuto had killed the Constable of Bourbon!

In returning from this successful sally, with his men, two Cardinals recognized Benvenuto almost at the entrance to the castle of Santo Angelo and stopped him. "Benvenuto," one Cardinal said, "I herewith appoint you to the household of his Holiness, Pope Clement, for defensive purposes."

Enraged over the loss of their leader, the Constable of Bourbon, the enemy flocked directly toward the castle, it being well known that the Pope would go there for better protection.

Benvenuto took charge of the bombardiers at the north battlement where swivels and falconets were set.

The amazing accuracy of his sighting caused the Cardinals to continue to heap blessings upon him.

Then came reinforcements across a piazza, Benvenuto trained every piece and sighted it, giving allowances for the change of position of the enemy before the guns could be discharged. Then, giving the word, a salvo that shook the battlements was fired. The manner in which the enemy in the piazza was swept down, like grain before a scythe, caused the enemy to turn and flee, utterly routed.

The Poet's Message

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 29.

The slow march "Majorca," written by the Prince of Wales for the bagpipes, was played at the dinner held by the Burns Club of London at Grosvenor House to celebrate the 176th anniversary of the birth of the Scottish poet. After boy pipers of the Royal Caledonian Schools, Bushey, Herts, had played the haggis round the banquet hall in customary fashion, their pipe-major, Mr. Taylor, at the invitation of Lord Macmillan, performed the Prince's composition. The president of the club, Mr. J. D. Ritchie, afterwards announced that the congratulations of the club would be sent to the Duke of Rothesay
(the Prince).Greetings were exchanged during the day with over 400 Burns clubs in India, the Dominions, and other parts of the world.
In proposing "The Immortal Memory," Lord Macmillan said that Burns dawned upon a world which had singularly little appreciation of the real beauties and charms of Nature. The eighteenth century was a formal, rather an artificial century, in its appreciation of the beauty of the world. It was left to two great poets—Wordsworth in England and Burns in Scotland to go out into the fresh air of Nature and gather inspiration at the fountain-head. That service had been of inestimable value in enriching their appreciation of life.Burns, saw with the seeing eye and the understanding heart the real message of Nature. That sense of man's kinship with Nature was really the message of Burns.
Now there were societies for Scotland, serving the beautiful parts of Scotland, to save it from the inroads of ugliness and sordidness. That was a cause which Burns would gladly have helped and which Scotland would do her best to assist.We lived in a materialistic age—an age of dreary Macmillan reports, unreadable economics, tariff problems, pig boards, and other things. We must have countervailing interests in life, and that loyalty to the memory of Burns was significant of the fact that man did not live by bread alone, by quotas, tariffs, and doles alone. They must think of the things that tended to beauty and joy which were not purchasable with money.CADETS TO FIND SEA LEGSTraining Ship's CruiseOne afternoon last month, H.M.S.
Frobisher, the training cruiser for naval cadets, sailed on a three months' voyage to the West Indies.
Lowering sails and a gale warning were ominous portents for the run down Channel, but everybody, including the youngest cadet, whose sea-legs have yet to be acquired, was much too busy to worry about the weather.On this cruise the Frobisher carries 155 cadets, of whom more than half come from the R.N.
College, Dartmouth, and the rest from public schools. They include 77 budding paymasters and five Chinese cadets, the latter undergoing training in the Royal Navy by arrangement with the Chinese Government.Normally the Frobisher would carry about 650 petty officers and men. Actually, however, she carries only 150, the idea that cadets shall fill the gaps in the lowerdeck complement and do their full share of the ship's work.In a conspicuous place on the half deck bulkhead hangs a framed copy of Sir Francis Drake's famous dictum as captain of the Golden Hind."I must have the gentlemen to hand and draw with the mariners and the artificers with the gentlemen. Let us show ourselves to be one company."In the Frobisher that admirable precept is translated into practice.
The cadets, the future officers of H.M. Navy, work side by side with the sailors at scrubbing decks, cleaning brightwork, and the hundred odd jobs of "housemaid's duty" which keep a man-of-war spick and span. On deck, in fact, they are treated on precisely the same footing as ratings. No system is better calculated to promote that sympathy and understanding between officers and men which is the Navy's greatest moral asset.

Exeter and Queen's St. Paul's gains two scholarships and an exhibition.The first open history scholarship at both Queen's and University go to Marlborough.Of the schools "outside the circle," the success of Liverpool Collegiate both classical scholarships at Hert-

A SYNTHETIC EMERALD

Produced in Germany

(Special Air Mail Service)

Berlin, Jan. 29.

The great Chemical Dye Trust claims that it has produced the first synthetic emerald. It has just caused a stone of surprising similarity to the real thing to be mounted with genuine emeralds in a ring which will be the prize in a lottery at the Press Ball, always the most outstanding social event of Berlin's winter season.Called "Igemalids" in compliment to the Trust, referred to popularly in Germany by the capital of its name, "I. G.", these stones will only be produced in very small quantities, and possessors of real emeralds are advised that they need have no fear of any fall in value of the authentic gem. Both the great chemical works and the two experts, Dr. Jager and Dr. Rapp, actually responsible for the Igemalids, are sufficiently proud of their product to accompany the presentation of the ring to the fortunate winner with a parchment document, testimony of the unique occasion.

delighted

you that my throat

in no way whatsoever

The original letter is held at Arcadia Works and its authenticity can be verified.

"Six months ago my Physician decided I should have, finally, to choose between abstaining from smoking or giving up my career as a Singer.

In desperation I tried various brands of Cigarettes, but without results, each having injurious and harmful effects to my throat.

Finally I tried Craven "A", and am more than delighted to inform you that they affect my throat in no way whatsoever, and that the Doctor is amazed."

MARLENE'S "MUSICAL" EARRINGS

Marlene Dietrich, famous Paramount star, is certainly going to start a new fashion fad when her next film—"CAPRICE ESPAGNOLE"—is seen. For in this picture she wears earrings which are not only a definite novelty but are thoroughly amusing.

The most fascinating piece is a single earring of solid gold, shaped like a guitar. The gold wire weighs very little, therefore the earring appears quite massive but swings easily and gracefully from the ear.

Miss Dietrich also wears a pair of earrings in the form of little roosters in bright red, green and yellow stones, and this motif is also carried out on a black lace fan with sequins in the same colours which she carries in her part of a Spanish senorita.

CAROLE LOMBARD'S WINTER OUTFIT

Carole Lombard, featured in Paramount's "NOW AND FOREVER" and "RUMBA", is wearing one of the smartest winter outfits in Hollywood.

It consists of a beaver coat, long and wide, with unusual sleeves into which her hands can slip and so dispense with a muff. A scarf, also of beaver, ties at the back instead of the front and Miss Lombard completes the outfit with an amazing hat of beaver made like the little, old-time "pan-cake" hats which children used to wear!

SYLVIA SIDNEY'S HAIRDRESS

Sylvia Sidney, Paramount's popular star, likes the sleek centre-parted hairdress she wore while making "BEHOLD MY WIFE", so much that she has adapted it for evening wear.

Sylvia wears this daintily severe coiffure with a violet coloured velvet evening gown cut low in the back and square across the front.

PERFUME LACQUER

Kitty Carlisle, who plays opposite Bing Crosby in Paramount's "HERE IS MY HEART", has thought of a novel idea which is already being taken up by "fashionables" of Hollywood.

Miss Carlisle is passionately fond of eau-de-cologne and to ensure that everything she owns carries always a haunting fragrance, she paints the drawers and doors of her wardrobe with an eau-de-cologne lacquer which she has especially made for her.

ELECTRIC EVENING PURSES

Mary Ellis, the English-American star who plays opposite Carl Brisson in Paramount's "ALL THE KING'S HORSES", has startled Hollywood with her new evening bag.

It is an envelop purse of pastel brocade, lined with champagne coloured satin and has a tiny light bulb right over the fastening in front. The mirror comes out of the bag when opened and perches at exactly the right angle under the light!

GAIL PATRICK'S GOWN

Gail Patrick, the young Paramount player, wears a magnificent dress in her next film—"MISSISSIPPI"—in which she will play opposite Bing Crosby.

It is a colossal robe de style of cream coloured tulle, lavishly trimmed with garlands of gardenias. It would be hard to give the dimensions of this model, but it had to be taken from the wardrobe room at Paramount through a wide window as it would not go through the door.

W. C. FIELDS' NEXT

W. C. Fields' next starring film for Paramount will be THE MAN ON THE FLYING TRAPEZE. Fields, as is his custom, will develop his own screen play under his pen name of Charles Boyle.

CLAUDETTE'S TEA GOWN

Claudette Colbert, star of Paramount's "THE GILDED LILY", is seen at tea-time nowadays wearing a long crepe dress in green with longish sleeves. The neck is high in front, with a collar which goes round the throat. The back, on the other hand, is slashed low but may be fastened to a medium height.

COLOUR IN THE CINEMA

A reflection of the great academic and scientific interest in the addition of colour to the cinematograph film is provided by the programme of a series of lectures shortly to be delivered before the members of the Royal Photographic Society. At least four of these are to deal with the most advanced methods of filming in colour—gasparcolour, brewstercolour, dufray-colour, and kodachrome being explained in turn—and all four will be illustrated by specimen productions on the screen in order that the experts of the Society may form an opinion regarding their respective virtues. New systems of filming in colour are still being reported. One of the most recent is stated to be only 20 per cent. more expensive than the ordinary film. Expense, of course, has been the great obstacle to this further improvement on the old "movie".

NORTHEWARD HO!

A five-month trip to the frozen wilds of Alaska—the farthest location trip taken by a Paramount troupe for years—is in prospect for Carole Lombard and Gary Cooper, who are playing the leading roles in "RENEGADE". The story deals with pioneer aviation in Alaska in the days following the War, and will be filmed in and around Fairbanks, in the heart of the snow region.

The film will follow MISSISSIPPI, in which Fields is featured with Bing Crosby, Joan Bennett and Queenie Smith.

THE TRUE LIFE STORY OF DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

A show over, Douglas Fairbanks would immediately hop a boat and be off—to Spain, to Europe, to Mexico, anywhere, just to be moving. He has always had a great love for the warm countries, perhaps because he has so much of the Latin temperament himself. Many of his greatest movie roles have been those of heroes with Latin blood in their veins: "Zorro," "Don Q," "The Gaucho"—and now "Don Juan," hero of a thousand and one love affairs, in "The Private Life of Don Juan," his newest picture. His passion for Seville, lovely city of roses, caused him to return there again and again and made him thirst to play the gallant role of this most famed of all Spanish adventurers.

All of one summer he lived in England, in a little house on the Thames near Great Marlow. Another summer he was "at liberty," and, for the moment, out of pocket. Several friends were sailing for Europe; he wanted very much to go with them. So he borrowed five hundred dollars from George M. Cohan and made the trip, part of it a walking tour through England. When he returned that autumn to fulfill a theatrical engagement, he paid back the loan to Cohan in dimes—his idea of a joke.

Some of his plays were "Clothes," in support of Mrs. Brady (Grace George), "The Man of the Hour," "As Ye Sow," "All for a Girl," "The Gentleman from Mississippi." In the latter, co-starred with Tom Wise, Doug took the part of a fresh metropolitan newspaper reporter. During recent years he has dealt with many a counter-part of the role he played so convincingly.

It was never claimed that his work as a star "elevated" the drama. Neither good looks nor artistry played the most important part in his success. It was then, as now, the joyousness of the man that got him over. He is the living, breathing proof of the value of a grin. He never appeared in a play that was not whole-some, stimulating and helpful; and he was always willing to let the whole world see every tooth in his head.

One morning William A. Brady summoned Fairbanks to his office. The current Fairbanks play, "A Gentleman of Leisure," was not quite the success its notices had promised. With his clear at its lowest angle of depression, Mr. Brady asked if the contract between them, which still had some time to run, might be allowed to terminate.

Doug grinned. Here was a man after his own heart! This was so much in his own happy manner of doing things. Of course the contract could terminate, and should, forthwith. He heartily agreed. It would give him a chance to go somewhere. They parted, Doug all but thanking Brady for fixing it so that he had no job.

He immediately sat down with a brace-of-travel folders to decide where to go next. But Messrs. Cohan and Harris called on him, contract in pocket, before he could even purchase a ticket.

"I've always wanted to write a play for you, Doug," said George

M. Cohan enthusiastically. "You're the typical young American! We'll open Thanksgiving night."

It was then October. While waiting for Cohan to write the play, Doug went for a long walk across the island; from there he shipped to Yucatan and walked from Progreso to Merida. When he came back, the play was still unfinished.

"I can't get my hero out of the drawing room," Cohan complained.

Finally, some weeks later, when he succeeded in extricating "Broadway Jones" from the drawing room—for the hero of the play was none other than the young chewing gum magnate—he turned around to look for his new star. Where was Fairbanks? Oh, Fairbanks got tired of waiting; he had pranced off to Chicago, where he was appearing in "Officer 888." And after that, he was scheduled to do "Hawthorne of the U. S. A."

Grumbling, Cohan broke his own vow and played "Broadway Jones" himself. If young Fairbanks would only stay in one place long enough, he complained, he might some day get somewhere.

It was in the entrancing Graustarkian romance, "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," that Doug first employed his athletic prowess to its full extent. He made his entrance by vaulting a high wall; at the finish he sprang from a balcony straight at his adversary's throat, to stage one of those spectacular melees for which he became famous later on. Following "Hawthorne" he did "He Comes Up Smiling" and "The New Henrietta," and in 1914, his last season in the theatre, "The Show Shop," also very successful.

Nothing was more natural than that the movies should mark him for their own. But thus far he had listened to their siren song with only on ear. He was afraid! He once got into pictures—he might have to stay put. His answer was always that he would "think it over."

But this time the movies set their trap with attractive bait. "Come over to us," they said, "and we'll let you do anything you want. Outside of poison gas and actual murder, the sky's the limit."

Without even waiting to kick off his shoes, Doug made a dive. For the first time in his life he would really be able to let go, to turn the world upside down if he chose. It sounded like the perfect outlet for his energy and ideas. Of course he'd have to start at the bottom, they explained. Doug grinned. He had never made over $800 a week on the stage—big money in those days. He signed a movie contract with D. W. Griffith for ten weeks, starting at the bottom—at $2,000 a week!

"The Lamb" was his first adventure before the camera. In it he let a rattlesnake crawl over him, tackled a mountain lion, fished a bunch of Yaqui Indians until they bellowed, and operated a machine gun. Movie fans gathered him to their hearts instantaneously. "The Lamb" was the first picture to play at $2 prices on Broadway. Griffith and Triangle Films changed the con-

KIPLING TALES TO BE FILMED

Party In India For "Soldiers Three"

Bombay. A party has arrived here to film Rudyard Kipling's "Soldiers Three" for Gaumont-British.

It is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. C. Barkas, and the scenario is stated to have been approved by Mr. Kipling.

Some 80 tons of equipment has already arrived. This includes military uniforms and rifles of the 19th century, sufficient for a whole battalion. "Shots" will be made of Bombay and up-country life and along the frontier.

A battle scene between frontier tribes will be enacted, and for this thousands of "extras" will be engaged.

Mr. S. Bonnett, the well-known cameraman who was attached to the Everest expedition, will take the scenes. Other experts include Messrs. R. Deacon, C. Stevens and T. Connachie.

KIPLING FILMS

There is a theory that Rudyard Kipling, secure in his Sussex fastness, will not allow any of his books to be made into films because of his dislike of the screen. He may dislike the screen, but he has recently consented to allow the purchase of the film rights of several of his works.

"Soldiers Three" and "Kim" are already being filmed and efforts are being made to make a film of "The Naulahka."

Kipling himself, unlike such writers as Walpole and Priestley, does not take much interest in the script of the film, once the rights have been bought. This is surely a sensible and philosophical attitude.

THE ALHAMBRA'S NEXT CHANGE

College Rhythm

Ever since Joe Penner, who makes his feature film debut in Paramount's "College Rhythm" (which is coming to the Alhambra Theatre on Saturday), became a radio star he's been a myth, or rather a series of myths. And he's worrying about what his public will think when it sees him in action in "College Rhythm."

"To those people," says Penner, and he could say millions, as his programme is rate No. 1 on the air, "who have heard me, but never seen me, I am really a myth. They have me pictured in their mind. Frequently I receive letters in which the writers attempt to describe me."

"Some say I am tall and thin, others short and fat, others stocky, slight, roly-poly, or almost anything. Actually, of course, I'm short, but not fat. Just plump. But what are these people going to think when they see me? Will they be disappointed in that they guessed wrong?"

Penner actually enjoys being a "myth." The descriptive letters he receives tickle him more than a salary check or the applause of a visible audience. And he particularly likes letters from children. More than once he has utilized a long distance phone to converse with some youngster confined to a hospital sick bed.

Penner's role in "College Rhythm" is that of keeper of the football team's mascot, Goo-Goo, his famous duck. His adventures,

ONE NIGHT OF LOVE

Final Showing's At The Queen's To-day

Grace Moore, new, vibrant screen personality who sang for the Metropolitan Opera for three years and scored successive triumphs on the concert stages of every important city in the world, is seen in the starring role of Columbia's film sensation "One Night of Love" which terminates its local engagement at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

Tullio Carminati, international star last seen with Constance Bennett in "Moulin Rouge" has the main male lead with a strong supporting cast including Lyle Talbot, Mona Barrie, Jessie Ralph, Andres De Segovia and Luis Alberni. Victor Schertzinger directed it from the screen play prepared by S. K. Lauren, James Gow and Edmund North from the original story written by Charles Beahan and Dorothy Spence.

A new and indescribable thrill in screen entertainment awaits those who haven't seen this musical production.

In his official post, afford some ludicrous comedy moments.

Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, Helen Mack, Lyda Roberti, and Mary Brian are featured with Penner in "College Rhythm," which was directed by Norman Taurog. Songs and music for the film were especially written by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel.

The romantic comedy smash of the year!

"20TH CENTURY"

The King's Next Attraction

The screen's greatest star in the screen's greatest comedy triumph! The star of stars in the hit of hits!

Such has been the critical acclaim of John Barrymore's outstanding performance in Columbia's screen version of Broadway's great comedy smash, "20th Century," which is coming to the King's Theatre on Thursday.

Significantly, it was Barrymore himself who led the vanguard of raves with his own unsolicited declaration: "I've never done anything I like as well as this role!"

Carole Lombard, who enacts the leading feminine role opposite the great Barrymore, comes in for her share of praise from this astute thespian. Of Miss Lombard, Barrymore says, "She's probably the greatest actress I've ever worked with!"

Produced by Columbia Pictures, the same company that have motion picture audiences "It Happened One Night" and "Lady For a Day," the new film has been hailed in many quarters as the comedy successor to these now famous film masterpieces with a million more laughs and a romantic angle that is entrancingly novel!

In the large star-studded supporting cast are included such perennial favourites of the stage and screen as Walter Connolly, Roscoe Karns, Ralph Forbes, Charles Levison, Dale Fuller, Edgar Kennedy, Etienne Girardot, who created the famous character of the religious lunatic in the original stage play, GIGI Parrish, the Wampas baby star, Billie Seward and Snowflake, Howard Hawks directed.

It's immense! A role that comes once in an actor's lifetime!

THE AFFAIRS OF CELLINI

"Go to the highest point of the castle," Benvenuto, with five of our best men and our best artillery," the Pope ordered. He turned to a steward and said, "Pay them now, pay them well, and see that food and wine is supplied them."

The fighting continued for days, the enemy being repulsed before it could enter the castle that sheltered Clement VII.

A distinguished appearing officer was seen by Benvenuto riding the margin of a trench directing his men to a weak spot in the palace guard. He was mounted, Benvenuto took aim, well ahead, and applied the torch. The officer was killed and such consternation resulted in the enemy as to me most amazing. Word came that the man killed was the Prince of Orange, whereupon Clement again came up and praised Benvenuto.

Pope Clement was a man of many talents, especially in defensive warfare. He noted a house in which many enemy officers entered. He ordered all to fire a salvo at the house, figuring that if they killed many generals at once the enemy would take flight.

But Cardinal Orsini, one of the de Medici, took Clement aside and argued against it.

"If we kill so many generals at once the rabble will be without a leader," he argued. "Whereupon nothing can stop it from sacking this palace and putting an end to us."

Now Benvenuto, going below to order up more ammunition, heard all of this. Without a word he went up, trained his guns en masse on this house and fired. A pillar in the courtyard crumbled and a corner of the house fell, causing dire destruction there.

At once Cardinal Orsini rushed up, white with rage.

POLA NEGRI

In A New German Film

Berlin, Jan. 29.
Miss Pola Negri, Polish star of the silent films, is to be re-discovered by Germany. She is to make what the American journalists call a "come-back" in a film "Mazurka" directed by Willy Forst, whose "Maskerade" proved such a great success in Berlin.

As part-author of the film manuscript, Herr Forst cabled to California inviting Miss Negri to play the leading role. She arrived in Berlin this week to begin work. Herr Forst must finish the film before June as he is under contract to go to Hollywood to make a film.

Miss Negri started her film career in Berlin studios over ten years ago, playing "Dubbary" with Emil Jannings, under the direction of Max Reinhardt's actor-pupil, Ernst Lubitsch. A young Potsdam girl, Ingeborg Theek, only sixteen and without previous film experience, is to play opposite Miss Negri.

It is interesting to note that the Ufa Company has gone to Prague for their new star, Lyda Baarova, who will play in "Bacareole," Slavonic types, it appears, are still able to charm the Germans.

"I saw you, Benvenuto," he cried, "I saw you below and know that you overheard my talk with his Holiness, you also heard him agree with me that the house was not to be fired upon. You have doubtless done something that will end in the death of all of us, but to make sure that you do not escape, you shall be hanged at once!"

Now Benvenuto seems to have taken altogether too much upon himself and in those days when a Cardinal ordered a man hanged, he was hanged. Don't miss to-morrow's exciting chapter.

ACTING FAMILIES

IN HOLLYWOOD

Second Generation Growing

Hollywood, like other cities of tradition, has its ancestries. For every day the "second generation" of players on the silver screen is growing. And on the list there are far more than the general public realizes. Famous theatrical families, some of them extending back a century or more, are represented. They include great stage families of both Europe and America and many of the screen's new-comers are the children of those who before them were the early screen stars.

America's greatest theatrical family, which at its source extends back to England and Ireland, is represented by John and Lionel Barrymore.

Violet Kemble-Cooper is a representative of an even older theatrical family in Great Britain. Constance Collier represents a family that dates back three generations in the theatre, to a grandmother who was a Portuguese ballet dancer and brought her ballet to England.

Children of screen stars who won fame for themselves include Dolores Costello (Mrs. John Barrymore) and her sister Helene, daughters of Maurice Costello, the first screen matinee idol.

Another great screen idol of the past, Francis X. Bushman, is the father of Ralph Bushman.

Ann Dvorak is the daughter of Anna Lehr, once a reigning favourite among feminine stars of silent days.

Present Day Stars

Theatrical families of note are represented by many present day stars.

Mady Christians, Viennese star, is the daughter of the late Rudolph Christians, great Continental actor, and Bertha Klein, famous opera star. The theatre, in her ancestry, runs back several generations.

Evelyn Laye, champagne blonde British star, is the daughter of Gilbert Laye and Eva Stuart Froud, British actor and actress. Jean Hersholt is the son of Henry and Claire Hersholt, dramatic stars of the Royal Theatre in Denmark.

Philips Holmes is the son of Taylor Holmes, famous stage star. The Marx Brothers are descended from a grandfather who was a Hungarian magician. Their mother used to play the harp in his act.

Constance Bennett is, of course, the daughter of the famous Richard Bennett. Chester Morris is the son of the great American stage actor, William Morris, and himself once played in variety as a magician. George Marion, Jr. and the Nugents are other two-generation combinations. And that's not all. "Jiggs," the comedy bulldog, is grandson of the original "Jiggs."

In Quoque

The golfers, excellent friends, who like so many players, enjoyed spoofing each other about their play, had just completed the course. "Jerry," remarked one of them, "you really should have a man to follow you around and replace the turf!"

The same man, replied Jerry, could make a day of it by following you around and returning the place."

At The Queen's

Another "Cinderella story" has come true in Hollywood.

The youthful charm of Jean Parker, that little more than year and a half ago graced a poster for the Olympic Games, has carried her to the highest possible position in a screen career. She was recently given full star rating on the current Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer season programme with "Have A Heart" as her first starring vehicle opening to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.

This places Miss Parker in the distinguished group of star notables that includes Greta Garbo, Marion Davies, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, William Powell, Maurice Chevalier, Constance Bennett and Gloria Swanson.

Supporting Miss Parker in her starring picture is James Dunn as the male lead, with Una Merkel and Stuart Erwin supplying the comedy highlights. Others who have supporting roles include Muriel Evans as the "office vamp," Willard Robertson and Edward Brophy.

Produced by John Considine and directed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by David Butler, "Have A Heart" is the love story of the year blending such romance, pathos and comedy.

"THE LODGER"

Showing To-day At The Star

To-day's presentation of "The Lodger," at the Star Theatre, introduces Mrs. Belloc Lowndes' popular story in modern guise. Cinematographic technique has progressed considerably since "The Lodger" was produced as a silent film. The adaptors have kept in mind the desirability of presenting the many incidents from angles which are different from the original version. Full advantage has been taken not only by them but by Maurice Elvey, who directed the picture, of the advantage of sound in the presentation of a theme the mysticism of which has to be closely preserved.

The story itself deals with a mystic figure who comes to the Metropolis during a period when a series of brutal and inexplicable murders is outraging public opinion by the immunity of the murderer from arrest. The deeds are committed with impunity, and the police are glad to accept the assistance of a police official from a foreign state, where it is believed that the perpetrator is a maniac musical genius.

Maurice Elvey has developed the mystical angles so cleverly that the spectator, though having a wider outlook than the Bunting's, is held in suspense. Ivor Novello's interpretation of the mystical character of the lodger is said to be "fascinating" in its sincerity. Never for a moment does he for-

TO PIPE OR NOT TO PIPE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 29.
The Scots Guards, proud possessors of the Prince of Wales's bagpipe tune, had great difficulty in placing pipers on their establishment.

The regiment had no pipers at first, except those maintained at the expense of the captains of companies.

Indeed, when Sergeant Evan Henderson was sent to the Crimea as pipe-major in 1853 with five pipers he was not on the establishment. When he paraded in London and at Windsor he was burlesqued by "Punch." So an inspecting officer demanded the withdrawal of pipers.

They were restored on appeal by Queen Victoria.

Yet 12 years later the Adjutant-general intervened against them again.

Scots in the regiment organised an opposition which made him withdraw his ban.

Not until 1928 did the pipers officially get heather bonnets, which were presented to both battalions by the King.

get that he is the central figure in the unfolding of a strange drama, and from the entanglements of which he cannot free himself.

He is ably seconded by Elizabeth Allan, A. W. Backcomb, Barbara Everest and Jack Hawkins, who give this Twickenham Film Studios production a reality that is as convincing as it is attractive. "The Lodger" is in every respect worth-while entertainment.

THE HONG KONG SEA SCOUTS

Saturday's Concert

With the object of raising funds for the Troop and increasing the popularity of the Sea Scouts as a vehicle for the instruction and amusement of our Youth, a Concert has been arranged and will take place on Saturday next, February 23rd, at the Seamen's Institute, the Headquarters of the Troop, commencing at 8.30 p.m. sharp.

In addition to several items by the Scouts themselves, many well known local Artists are giving their assistance. Mrs. Bruce Wilson, Messrs. W.J.T. Phelps, W. H. Billing and L. W. Peckham are contributing vocal items, Miss I. Phelps and Mr. N. Moran on the piano and violin respectively, while Mr. G. H. Ash, an increasingly popular humourist will also appear. The second appearance of the Girls' Glee Party, and of Mr. G. Evans' Male Voice Party are attractive items. Miss I. Phelps, Mr. G. Dudley Bartlett and Mr. G. Evans will be the accompanists, and an excellent Programme is assured.

The Sea Scouts are at present few in number, but enthusiastic in spirit and Mr. M. W. Scott, Scout Master, who is arranging this Concert, hopes soon to enrol additional members from the youth of all nationalities in the Colony.

For this purpose, funds are badly needed and all who are interested in the Movement, and of the Boy Scouts' Movement generally, are urged to support the Concert on Saturday next.

SECRET SPY TRIAL

Italian Charged
At Malta

When Arnaldo Bernardinelli, an Italian, appeared before the Malta police magistrate on espionage charges, the trial was ordered to be held in secret.

Bernardinelli, who is engaged in business in the island, was accused of having made sketches, plans and notes of prohibited areas which might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy, and with having communicated such information to other persons.

He was accused under the Official Secrets Act Ordinance, and after the magistrate had made his order the proceedings were conducted behind closed doors.

Bernardinelli is alleged to have carried on his activities last year between March and December when he was arrested.

Fascist Italy has long been displaying great activity over Malta, Britain's Mediterranean stronghold, which she claims as rightfully Italian.

Though the island's inhabitants are racially quite unconnected with the Italians, and their language is a Semitic one, some newspapers have been carrying on a violent campaign against Italian oppression because the teaching of Italian in Maltese schools has been restricted.

VALEDICTORY

Mamak Tournament
Officials Feted

An enthusiastic and representative gathering attended the dinner given in honour of Mr. S. S. Mamak, the founder of the Mamak Hockey Tournament, and the officers and members of the executive leaving the Colony.

Mr. O. E. White, the Chairman, referred to all that Mr. Mamak had done for Hockey in Hong Kong and particularly in regard to the tournament which bore his name. He spoke also of the work done by the retiring members of the executive and said it would be very difficult to replace them.

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, addressing those present with his usual eloquence, heartily thanked Mr. Mamak for his open hospitality and referred to the difficulties which the Tournaments had had to face, especially regarding the withdrawal of the Shield. Mr. Hamilton then proposed a toast to Mr. Mamak, and this was excellently responded to.

The Rev. J. R. Higgs, on behalf of the visitors, thanked Mr. Mamak for the excellent dinner he had provided and remarked that he regretted very much that he had only assisted the Tournament in a very small way, but hoped, however, that in future he would be able to do more.

The following were the guests present:—Mr. E. W. Hamilton, J.P., (President) Major M.H.A. Campbell, O.B.E. (Vice-President) Commander A. E. Phillips, M.B., Ch. B. (Vice-President), Mr. A. E. The defendant in pleading guilty, said he boarded the steamer in order to sell some old clothes to the Chinese crew on board the ship.

A fine of $20 or in default two weeks hard labour was imposed.

Another Chinese named Luk Man To unemployed, was also charged with a similar offence of boarding the S.S. Tin Yat, lying alongside the Po Tak Wharf in Connaught Road Central, and was fined $20 or two weeks hard labour.

PIRACY SCARE ALLAYED

Distress Signals
Were Crackers

The piracy scare on Monday night following a wireless message from H.A.I. Burgenland to the effect that she had sighted several rockets fired by an unknown ship, has now proved to be groundless, it having been ascertained that a Chinese ship in the locality mentioned had been discharging crackers.

It will be recalled that the Burgenland wireless a message that she had sighted several rockets fired by an unknown ship some 20 miles E.S.E. of Breaker Point. Following this report, there was much activity in naval and police circles, men belonging to H.M.S. Diamond being recalled to their ship, while two police launches were despatched to Mirs Bay.

Investigations since made, however, show that there was nothing whatever in the way of piracy, as at first feared, a British destroyer on patrol having proceeded to the spot indicated and was able to ascertain that a Chinese ship in the locality had been discharging crackers.

STANDSTILL AGREEMENT IN GERMANY

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright)]

London, Feb. 18.

The financial Press here describes the new standstill agreement with Germany signed on Saturday last, as reported by Transocean, as an "acceptable compromise." The "Financial Times" declares that the prolongation of last year's standstill agreement if not completely satisfactory to creditors and debtors, nevertheless came out with mutual concessions by both sides having obtained the fulfilment of certain wishes that on previous occasions remained unsatisfied. For Germany the most important of these is the reduction of interest rates while for creditors it is the shortening of unused credit lines. The paper believes that the shrinkage of standstill credits proves that a great number of clearing house agreements arranged by Germany resulted in the decreased need for bank credit.

COURT THAT NEVER TRIES A CASE

Southwark History And Its Dignity

At two minutes past eleven in the forenoon the other day (writes a correspondent) I hurried up a flight of stairs in search of the General Quarter Sessions of the Peace appointed to be held in and for the Liberty of the Town and Borough of Southwark.

At two minutes and five seconds past eleven I opened the door of a room. Two men, leaning against a table, glanced up inquiringly.

"I want the Southwark Quarter Sessions," I panted.

The two men picked up two bowler hats. "We are the Southwark Quarter Sessions," they said. "The Court stands adjourned."

At three minutes past eleven, while 50 per cent of the Quarter Sessions recrossed London Bridge (a) his way to another engagement, the other half sat in a room of the Southwark restaurant—which, four times a year, becomes a Sessions chamber—and told me why Southwark knows so little of "the law's delays."

"But are you official?" I began rather tactlessly. "Are you recognized?"

Men in Bowler Hats

"Official," said this segment of the Quarter Sessions with an amazed stare. "Official? Recognized? My dear sir, we're history."

That, you will agree, was that. Still I was able to discover, at length, why two men, with two bowler hats (headgear is optional) solemnly cross London Bridge, four times a year to sit for two minutes in the upper room of a Southwark restaurant.

It all began in the reign of Edward the Third. Criminals in those days had a habit of committing their crimes in the City of London and escaping across London Bridge to Southwark, where, being out of the City's jurisdiction, they could sit back and snap their fingers at the law.

Obviously, this could not continue. So, in course of time, a decree was passed, establishing Southwark Quarter Sessions, and ending the career of the district as a felons' sanctuary.

For centuries the Sessions were held. But the Act of 1888, which set up the London Sessions, omitted to abolish the other Court at Southwark. Eleven years later, the Act of 1899, which established the Borough of Southwark, also made no mention of the local Sessions. The Court had nothing to do; but although, in effect, the formation of London Sessions had blotted it out, it was never formally abolished. And it follows that a Court which has not been abolished must still sit.

Four Times a Year

That is why, four times annually, representatives of the High Bailiff of Southwark, and of the Clerk of the Peace for the Borough, meet "at eleven o'clock in the forenoon precisely, then and there to hold a Court."

Justices—who are Aldermen of the City—are summoned. A jury of Southwark burghers is called. Regularly, justices and jury are informed, beforehand, that their services are not needed—and, invariably, the grave, bowler-hatted men, with their "Precepts," are the only two visitors to the General Quarter Sessions of the Peace.

"How long is it since a case has been heard here?" I asked. "Certainly not for 50 years," said my half of the Quarter Sessions, rising hastily. He glanced at his watch.

"Ten past eleven. It's been a long sitting.... The Court is now adjourned."

Quietly, in the custody of the Court (50 per cent of it) I passed out into the Town and Borough of Southwark.

CONTROL OF ARMS TRADE

No Concrete Results At Geneva

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright)]

Geneva, Feb. 18.

The delegations negotiating here on the question of instituting supervision of trade and manufacture of arms, spent a large part of the day in discussing means for a compromise between the divergent views of America on the one side and the English and Italian Governments on the other. No concrete result seems yet achieved, so that the basis for further activity of the committee for the supervision of trade and manufacture of arms is not yet found.

Meanwhile, the sub-committee for determining the general conditions for a disarmament agreement met under the chairmanship of the Belgian, Bourgeois. Two proposals awaited deliberation, (1) that made by Mr. Arthur Henderson arising from the MacDonald plan in the 1928 conference, which was a permanent disarmament, and (2) that of the French, which was a permanent disarmament, but with a permanent peace conference. # MOTORING-NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

Growth Of The Hong Kong Automobile Association

INTERNATIONAL PRIVILEGES

The Rev. G. E. S. Upsdell, Hon. Secretary of the Hong Kong Automobile Association, gave a very interesting talk on "Motoring-National and International" over the radio last night.

In the course of his talk Mr. Upsdell said:—

A Conference on International Motoring was held in London from 2nd. to the 5th. June of last year when questions of importance were discussed and recommendations made which are of interest to and for the benefit of the motoring community throughout the world. This conference is held annually in one of the large cities and representatives were present last year from Australia, New Zealand, Hong Kong and Japan, as well as many European countries; there being about fifty countries in all represented. This conference is the counterpart of an International Convention which is held from time to time when Plenipotentiaries of the Governments concerned meet to give official sanction to questions of international motoring importance. It has been suggested that motorists and business men in Hong Kong would be interested, with the result that this paper entitled "Motoring-National and International" has been compiled.

We will deal first with the growth of the organization in this Colony and then its part in the question of International Motoring.

The roads of the Colony were not originally constructed or laid out for the use of motor traffic and with the arrival of cars it was soon evident that an organization was needed, which should watch over the interests of motorists. The suggestions and recommendations made by this Association have always received the sympathetic consideration of the Government, with the result that to-day our roads, etc., receive universal praise from visitors to the Colony and can rarely be beaten in any part of the world. We have at present a total of 306 miles in the Colony outside of City limits and that mileage is rapidly increasing. The Association provides legal advice to its members when necessary. Mechanical advice is also available and is extensively used.

Drivers are only recommended by the Association after enquiry into their manner of driving, etc., this has resulted in greater caution on the part of chauffeurs, who know the benefit they derive from being recommended by a responsible body; we sincerely hope that all drivers will exercise due caution on the roads and observe the proper motoring etiquette. A card index system is kept and we thus are able to assist good drivers, which is to the advantage of all concerned.

Commercial Section Being Formed

A Commercial Section is in process of being formed and it is hoped to arrange a system of certificates and rewards for those drivers of commercial vehicles who hold "clean records" over a prescribed number of years. This system has been carried on for a number of years in England by the "Safety First" Association who kindly gave the Hon. Secretary full information as to their organization while he was on leave. We are indebted to them for many ideas which it is hoped will be of assistance to the general life of the Colony.

The Insurance companies will give special terms to members on production of their membership cards which is tacit acknowledgment of the value of the Association.

A further development has been the institution of road patrols on Saturdays, Sundays and Public Holidays and their services have been extensively used.

Members only have a right to carry the badge of the Association, while for the purposes of international motoring, we issue the A. A. badge with "Hong Kong" superimposed; these two badges should be taken by members when proceeding on leave as they will be recognised by the R. A. C. and the A. A. and carry certain privileges with them, they are the personal property of our Association and we rely on motorists to return them to us when they cease to be members of our local organization.

Agreement's With Other Associations

We have working agreements with various associations who give advice and assistance to our members who visit the countries concerned.

In Malaya there is one organization covering Singapore, the Federated and the Unfederated Malay States under the general heading of Malaya; there are about 4,500 miles of good roads including a lovely run from Penang to Singapore of 513 miles which can be enjoyed by motorists of this Association who are returning from leave with their cars; the cost of the journey is about $50.00 Straits currency and intending motorists can obtain full details from our office.

The Western India Automobile Association with whom an agreement has just been signed, has also entered into a reciprocal agreement with the other motoring organizations in India, viz. The Automobile Association of Northern India, The Nigiri Automobile Association, the United Provinces Automobile Association, the Automobile Association of Bengal, the Automobile Association of Southern India, the Burma Motor Association and the Automobile Association of Ceylon. Visiting motorists have thus the facilities of all these bodies at their service on production of letters of introduction from Hong Kong and in the event of taking up permanent residence are admitted with special privileges.

International Tours Possible

The spirit of adventure is abroad and an interesting journey is now possible from Mombasa in East Africa through Nairobi, Bangassou, Kano, Timbuctoo to Tangiers or Tangiers to Ceuta and from thence to Cadix through Madrid, Bordeaux and Paris to London. Particulars of this journey are available in this Colony and letters of introduction from us to the Royal East African Association will make the journey possible.

An International motor road has now been established from Istanbul (late Constantinople) through Sofia, Belgrade, Budapest, Vienna, Nuremberg, Cologne, Brussels to London, which indicates the enormous strides taken in international motoring. This has been accomplished through the efforts of the A.I.T., to which organization reference is made below.

It is impossible to go into detail with regard to the enormous network of roads covering the whole of Europe but suffice it to say that one of our members made arrangements in Hong Kong to motor from Greece through various countries to England and information to hand at present from him in England indicates a most successful tour.

We cannot omit Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Canada, or America where motoring organizations exist with whom we are frequently in touch and whose organizations will assist you wherever you wish to go.

The A. I. T.

The general lines of our development here, as indicated above, have been similar to those in other countries and it soon became obvious to the various Associations that good motoring conditions were not only of national but of international importance and the Alliance Internationale de Tourisme, commonly called the A.I.T. was formed; it was the Annual Conference of this Association which was held last year in London. To this body details of the various aspects of motoring in this Colony are submitted from time to time and through them circulated throughout the world which is of very practical value to the Colony. Under its auspices documents of International Motoring value are issued and these are valid in all countries whose Governments have subscribed to the International Convention relative to motor traffic held in Paris, 1926. These documents are issued to motorists on the clear understanding that they are used for pleasure only and are not engaged in any business in the country visited; in the latter case it is only fair that the taxes should be paid.

The Necessary Documents

When preparing for a tour in any country it is necessary to be provided with the following:—

A triptyque and/or carnet de Passages en Douanes.
An International Certificate for Motor Vehicles.
An International Driving Permit.
A Fiscal Permit.
A Passport.

The Triptyque is a customs permit for the temporary importation of a motor vehicle into one country only. It does away with the necessity of depositing the duty in cash with the customs direct.

A Carnet de Passages en Douanes (Customs Carnet) is an international customs permit for the temporary importation of a motor vehicle into the most important touring countries, thus taking the place of separate triptyques for each country to be visited. It is simpler in use and far more convenient than a number of triptyques.

An International Certificate for Motor Vehicles, is a general licence valid in most countries for twelve months from the date of issue. It does away with the necessity of re-registering the vehicle for which it is issued in each country visited, thus saving time, trouble and expense. Plates are supplied bearing the country's registration letters (i.e. the country from which the car starts its tour). Hong Kong has the registration letters "H.K."

An International Driving Permit, acts as a driving licence in all countries recognising the International Convention. The permit is valid for twelve months, from the date of issue. Two photographs have to be supplied when applying for this permit.

A Fiscal Permit, entitles the visiting motorist to 90 days exemption from all road taxes during a period of twelve months in those countries where it is recognised. The 90 days need not be consecutive.

A Passport. This is the usual type of passport.

Indemnity Against Duty. In issuing a Customs Carnet and/or a number of triptyques the Association requires to be indemnified against one duty only, that of the country among the group covered by the papers issued to the member wherein the highest tariff is in operation. This duty must be covered by the member providing the Association with security, either by:—

(a) Depositing cash to cover full duty.

or
(b) Depositing in cash £20.0.0d. in the case of a car or £5.0.0d. in the case of a motorcycle and giving a Banker's Indemnity in prescribed form to cover the balance of the duty.

It is possible for an individual to insure for a very small amount against the loss of duty on a car by reason of fire or any other cause.

Adhering to Itinerary

It is essential to state clearly what countries you wish to visit when applying for international documents. For instance a certain motorist decided on a tour and held a carnet for certain countries. He suddenly decided to visit the Polish Corridor for which no documents are required and cleared his carnet from the country in which he was touring; his difficulty arose when he wished to leave this international territory, he was not in any country legally speaking, having cleared his carnet from his last country and he had not entered any other; a hectic few days were spent rushing to and fro across the corridor and it was only after very considerable trouble and anxiety that he was able to obtain adequate guarantees to re-enter the country from which he had already obtained his clearance and then proceed on his tour.

A motorist is wise to consult the motoring organization of the country he is visiting which is done simply by carrying with him cards of introduction from Hong Kong; failure to do so may lead to unfortunate results.

Time does not allow of more now, but further information will be gladly supplied by the Hon. Secretary if application is made by letter to him.

Wide Influence of Association. It is a pleasure to serve the motoring community of Hong Kong, but we must remind motorists that our organization involves

THE BALINESE DANCERS

Sir—Referring to the advertisement appearing in to-day's issue of your esteemed Paper, I wish to particularly call the attention of the public of Hong Kong to the Balinese dancers who, headed by Ratu Idja and Dewi Ratna, open a short season at the Queen's Theatre on Wednesday, the 6th of March, under the management of Mr. L. van Sant.

The principals Ratu Idja and Dewi Ratna are great exponents of the art of dancing traditional with the population of the island of Bali, one of the gems of the Netherlands Indian archipelago; their performances are reputed to be perfection indeed. They are assisted by a group of dancers whose performances are likewise of the highest standard.

The music is provided by a gamelan orchestra which is one of the best to be found in the Netherlands Indies.

Straits papers as well as Java papers have been most eulogistic about these wonderful performances and I would recommend those in Hong Kong who are artistically inclined and desire to acquaint themselves with a form of culture of another country to attend a performance; I can assure everybody that they will not be disappointed.

THE RESCUE OF ENGLISH

Lecture By Rev. Baines

"The Rescue of English" was the subject of an engaging lecture delivered by the Rev. H. W. Baines, M.A., assistant Chaplain to St. John's Cathedral, at a meeting of the Hong Kong Branch of the English Association held at Helena May Institute last evening.

Professor R. K. Simpson was in the chair and there was a large gathering present.

The lecturer said that it seemed to him that English was at present in great danger not because of the lack of good writers but owing to its misuse in everyday matters. The once robust faith in the language was now crumbling to a point where, on account of confusion, it had been found necessary to set up a standard for uniformity. In this connection he drew attention to the establishment of an advisory board for pronunciation, by the British Broadcasting Corporation, but he criticised its efforts as departing beyond its advisory capacity.

The speaker then went on to compare present day composition by these every day users presenting a distinct contrast to the superiority of style of their grandparents, and emphasised that the need to defend against its further mutilation was as serious as defending a fair lady from a dragon.

Continuing, Mr. Baines said that this "dragon" had assumed many forms which included abbreviations, pomposity, split infinitives, ending a sentence with a preposition, Americanisms, jargonised the use of foreign words and commercial English. He dealt at great length with these subjects in turn and concluded by calling upon his hearers to do their utmost to defend "lady English."

An interesting discussion then followed in which several members took part including Mr. Edgar Davidson, Mr. R. T. Barrett, Mr. R. Campbell and Professor Simpson.

A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Baines concluded the meeting.

Financial responsibilities and we therefore count on your support. ## MISSION WORK IN CHINA

Lecture By Dr. Reichelt

An interesting lecture on "Trends in China's Non-Christian Religions and the new opportunities for the Christian Mission" was delivered by Dr. Reichelt of the Tao Fung Shan Institute to a large gathering at the Cathedral Hall last evening.

Dr. Reichelt said that in China there were many worldly and irreligious people who had joined associations in connection with non-Christian religion movements in order to consolidate their position in society, get a backing in their struggle for prestige and to have a decent place where they might pass their leisure time comfortably and quietly. All this granted it must, however, be said that a fairly high percentage of earnest religious truth seekers were to be found in those new societies.

"Personally," said the speaker, "I feel it to be one of the most tragic and painful facts in connection with the missionary work in this vast land of our adoption, that we have not succeeded better in the great task of getting the real religious and prepared people linked up with the Church. I know that many missionaries, who are living with open windows, feel the same way. It is my earnest prayer that our deliberations in connection with this subject may help to start a movement for a closer, more sympathetic and more intelligent approach to the religious people of other folds. The time for making this approach is most opportune. As all of you know China is sharing in the general depression and misery which is, at this time, besetting humanity. We all know something about the special difficulties and perplexities which China is in addition facing, during this time of transformation; difficulties so appalling and tribulations so tremendous that it is a wonder that the Chinese people have been able to pull through as well as they have."

"Under such circumstances religion naturally gains remarkable impetus. This is the case in China at present. In spite of all the communistic and anti-religious movements which are going on, nourished by atheistic magazines and inspired by a fraction of the returned students and God-forsaken westerners, the religious life is on the increase in China; and the number of new religious societies and reformative movements in connection with the old religions are growing from day to day."

Two Principles

Continuing, Dr. Reichelt said that there were two principles which Christian missionaries ought to follow in their intercourse with the religious movements and associations they meet to-day. Firstly, "We must avoid all false compromises, which tend to obscure and tone down the Christian message and lead the people into the wilderness of syncretism; and secondly the Christian message must be given in its uniqueness and original freshness, as it was given during apostolic times, when it brought about the transformation of the nations of Rome, heavily laden with all kinds of philosophical and metaphysical systems, but awfully lacking in genuine theocentric dynamic. At the same time we should lay the greatest stress upon the example given us by St. Paul by finding all the good points of contact in the holy books, the ritual and the whole working of the other religions."

The speaker then went on to deal with the various religious associations which at the present time were playing an active part in the religious life of China.

Dr. Reichelt will deliver his second lecture on the same subject on February 26.

PORTUGAL'S CHOICE OF PRESIDENT.

Overwhelming Vote For General Carmona

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Lisbon, Feb. 18.
The Presidential election here has resulted in the return of General Carmona who, according to the first official figures, polled about 85 per cent. of all the votes cast. Out of 550,000 Carmona scored 462,000. The interesting fact is that whereas in Lisbon itself, Carmona polled 78 per cent. of the total votes, in many small towns the percentage was between 90 and 93 per cent.
General Carmona overthrew the democrats Premier da Costa in 1926 and placed himself at the head of a military dictatorship, his presidency being confirmed by the result of elections held in 1928. Carmona brought peace and order to Portugal after long years of revolution, and the fact that he has been re-elected proves his popularity among the population. Transocean Kuo Min.

IS PEACE AN ILLUSION?

Peace has been the subject of Mussolini's talks recently. It seems that it is necessary for dictators to scoff at peace about once a month. Especially must they brandish the sword in one hand at times when they have, in the course of very profitable diplomacy, appeared to wave an olive branch in the other. Too much of this olive branch business might give somebody the notion that they were weaklings, having to obtain by fair words what they are not able to seize by force.
If Duce was not talking for home consumption on this occasion; his sneer at peace was written for International Conciliation, the monthly organ of the "Carnegie Endowment for International Peace." He said that Fascism, "apart from political considerations, of the moment, believes neither in the possibility nor the utility of perpetual peace." Did he mean that his own notable efforts to stabilize Europe—as in the new Franco-Italian agreements—are only for "the moment?"

As usual, Mussolini was not merely calling peace an illusion; he was actively glorifying war, declaring that it alone "puts the stamp of nobility upon the peoples who have the courage to meet it." And he added "This anti-pacifist spirit is carried by Fascism even into the life of the individual." But is it? Of course, the Fascist state was against the individual and his rights. Yet it discourages war between individuals. And it war ennobles nations why not individuals?
Or if the individual can rise to his fullest worth only by sinking himself in the state, why cannot the state come to fullest development as a co-operating member of the international community? A dictator should stick dictating. When he tries to rationalize dictatorship he only proves that it has no logic but force.
Of course we need not take Mussolini altogether seriously. He has proved by his own efforts that he recognizes his country's imperative need for peace. He has worked hard for ten years to prevent the "ennobling" of Italy by war. Nor need we accept anyone who rules by force as an authority on peace. We know in our hearts more about the genuine nature of peace than any dictator can tell us. We know that it has eternal foundations, and that the human yearning for peace results from a spiritual law or harmony which requires order and justice. We may not yet comprehend completely or demonstrate in our experience the "peace which passeth understanding." But we know peace to be a living, unconquerable force in the world. We would rather accept the authority of him who said, "My peace I leave with you."

PLANE FORCED DOWN.

Mishap At Mirs Bay.

OFFICER INJURED.

Apparently while out on piracy patrol over Mirs Bay yesterday afternoon an aeroplane belonging to H.M.S. Hermes suddenly developed engine trouble and had to make a forced landing in the sea.
The number of persons aboard the plane at the time of the accident could not be ascertained but we learned from an independent source that an officer was injured. Whether he was the pilot or observer is not known as official confirmation could not be obtained up to a late hour last night.
At one time the plane was in great danger of sinking but fortunately it landed near the beach and a number of people on it immediately rushed to the rescue and towed the machine ashore.

Vienna, Feb. 19.
A fatal accident of the most unusual character took place at Starein in Syria where amateur performers belonging to the Jungsteiner Society produced a play called "Andreas Hofer" about the Austrian national hero.

26-year-old carriage builder Joseph Zach, belonging to the troupe, was required to fire two shots from a revolver on the stage at a given signal. Instead of using blank cartridges Zach used ordinary bullets because he had a supply on hand. At a given signal shots were fired at a stout piece of timber, but one bullet hit a knot in the wood and rebounded and struck Zach in the right breast. Dying, he instantaneously concluded. Transocean Kuo Min.

SUNDAY AT FANLING.

Huntin' And All That

In the mind of the average person the idea of hunting is wrapped up in an aura of grimness and expense. But on Fanling, where hard-faced men, and a number of extremely rude people in fancy dress dash around the country looking for hounds and foxes. How entirely different from this idea is the reality of the Fanling Hunt. Conviviality is the watchword of all its members, and the actual hunting side of the business is plentifully interspersed with social and conversational exchanges (sensibly flavoured by Horse with a capital 'a'). Indeed there are few pleasures, even of the chase, to rival that of the incredibly technical conversations in the Hunters' Arms.
Last Sunday hounds met at Mr. Archer's bungalow, just up the road from the Hunter's Arms. It was a lawyer, and I have seldom seen such a "truly rural" background for a Fanling Meet. When hounds arrived, looking a picture, a gramophone struck up "There is a Tavern in the Town." There was. Our host produced a shattering display of victuals and bottles, and at the end of twenty minutes even the most timid of the Field swung his or herself into the saddle with a feeling of external confidence and internal warmth.

The Field moved off for a long back across Shum Chun river. Just after they crossed it, hounds were slipped in between them and the railway. A long, fast hunt resulted, over good going, to the patrol road when there were about twenty up. When hounds crossed the road and ran over a bit of rough paddy, the clever ones kept on the road, and joined in at the front for the last quarter mile down the road.
After a shortish check Mr. Macnamara took the Field past the Police station and towards the Gallop. Here he lined them up while hounds were put in on the right. They were going like a bat out of hell but the Field, as soon as they were allowed to go, went even about twice as fast as that, and trod the hounds, tails into the ground. Why won't people listen to the Field Master? They would get such a much better hunt. The rest of the line was scrappy and rather slow, finishing at the stables. There was not much grief. One young gentleman fell rather foolishly trying to cut in down a vertical bank. Another fell off a bridge and had a mud bath. A couple of women tumbled off on the flat. These are only the ordinary incidents of the hunt. There was no harm done; or likely to do.

And so to tea at the Hunters' Arms. This week's programme, being somewhat unconventional, filled the main topic of conversation. On Wednesday the Hunt is having a bye day after foxes, and though they have not filled one yet this season, they have had several good runs and live in hopes. On Sunday is the first Hunt Point-to-Point at Mai Po, which is about one mile on the Castle Peak side of the road past Lok Ma Chau. There are four races, for Australians, Lightweights, and the Ladies (God help them). The card has filled splendidly and there ought to be some very hot racing to be seen. It is a three flag course so that riders have to use their own judgement in picking a line. A tote is being run for one dollar a time (win only) and teas and drinks can be bought on the ground. I hope that this will attract a large portion of the public as it is a cheap and amusing way of spending a Sunday afternoon. The first race is at 2.30, and busses will be on hand to take spectators and performers to and from the course from Sheung Shui station.
An interesting side line to the kennels is "a bit of dog breeding" and a few weeks ago about the third or fourth litter of hounds, or more or less hounds, was produced. Of last year's litters some hunt, some don't, but the idea is definitely a good one. When it was learnt that the Hunt wanted public spirited people to "walk" the last lot for them, there was an ugly rush on kennels among the female supporters, and a prospect of sleepless nights for their long suffering men folk. In any case, good luck to the young entry. May they eat many foxes, and break up as few homes as possible.

PARTIAL VICTORY FOR THE GOVERNMENT

Supreme Court Decision In U.S. Gold Clause Case

Washington, Feb. 18. The United States Administration has won the gold clause case in the Supreme Court, having been upheld by a majority ruling of the court by five votes to four.

Reuter learns that the Government victory is only partial, that its gold clause abrogation in private bond issues is upheld but that, in federal bond cases, it is defeated.

The Administration has decided that no emergency legislation is necessary, however.

The Government has won all along the line regarding private bonds, state and municipal gold contracts. In each case the court upheld by five-to-four the right of Congress to regulate currency.

The majority of the court consisted of Justices Hughes, Stone, Brandeis, Roberts and Cardozo, and the minority votes were from Justices McReynolds, Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler.

DISSENTIENT VIEWS
Declaring, "The Constitution is gone," Justice McReynolds presented the views of the dissentient judges for saying in one breath Congress had no power to repudiate its gold bond obligations and, at the same time reaching the conclusion that because the Government bondholder cannot accept gold he must accept a 60 per cent. legal tender dollar for each gold dollar the Government promised to pay him.

He added that according to the majority decision, Congress was without power to repudiate its gold obligations in its own bonds, but could not be compelled to pay in devalued dollars the value of the gold called for.

They were told, he recalled, that the Government made from its transactions in devaluation $2,800,000,000 which were now reposing in the Treasury.

THE JUDGMENT
The Chief Justice, delivering his judgment, expressed the opinion that the gold clauses interfered with the exertion of power granted to Congress to establish a uniform currency and parity between the kinds of currency, and to make that currency dollar legal tender for payment of debts.

The court, however, took a different view where the Government's own bonds were concerned. In this case, said the Chief Justice, the gold clauses were intended to afford a definite standard of value, thus protecting against depreciation of currency by payment of lesser value than that subscribed. Nevertheless, the court proceeded to nullify the effect of this opinion by ruling that Government bondholders may not sue the Government.

The value of United States bonds containing the gold clause are approximately $48,100,000,000 and private bonds, $51,900,000,000.

GOVERNMENT RIGHT
Washington, Feb. 18. President Roosevelt kept in telephonic communication with the Capitol while the court was announcing its decision, but reserved comment until he had read the text of the judgment.

Mr. Cummings, the Attorney-General, expressed satisfaction at the decision.

Mr. Doughton, Chairman of the House of Representatives Finance Committee, declared, "The decision means that what the Government did might not have been absolutely legal, but it was right."

THE LONDON MARKET

U.S. Gold Clause Reaction

London, Feb. 19. The gold clause decision is expected to lead to a volte face in the foreign exchange market. Hitherto the continent has been a seller of francs, buyer of dollars and in a lesser degree of sterling. In expectation that the decision will be adverse to the government, operators are now rushing to cover. Consequently the franc has improved in terms of the dollar, while sterling follows in the wake of the dollar. Well-informed circles expect this tendency to continue for some time with the price of gold steadily rising, which accounts for excited dealings in gold shares.

As regards commodities, the decision does not increase exports of American cotton by a single bale, neither does it clear up the pepper and shellac crisis nor solve the Netherlands Indies native rubber problem. Conversely it does not mitigate the dryness of the Western wheat belt nor does it add a pound to the scanty United States supplies of feed meats, but in the present temper of the markets, speculation is awakening from hibernation and will concentrate in bullish rather than bearish implications and factors such as the foregoing which explain the sharp rise in commodities to-day.

UNCERTAINTY REMOVED
London, Feb. 19. The cloud hanging over all markets of the world has been removed by the United States Supreme Court decision in the gold clause case. The immediate result was a rush of buying orders in Wall Street which caused a general advance wherein railroads, as they stood most in need of the adverse decision. Commodities also spurted but an emergency closure was applied to the Chicago wheat market in order to prevent excessive fluctuations in speculation.

A prominent financier in a statement to Reuter in London stated, "I consider the decision generally bullish mainly because it removes the very great uncertainty which caused traders and manufacturers to hold up normal orders which will now be released, thus tending to swiftly accelerate the long overdue recovery."

The situation is likened to that existing in Britain at wartime when it was legally possible to pay in gold but actually impossible.

DR. SVEN HEDIN

In long enthusiastic articles the papers not only tribute the septuagenarian as a great explorer but also as an ever trusty friend of the German people who never wavered even in Germany's most trying times.

The wire which Sven Hedin sent to his sister who is in Stockholm from Nanking saying he is in the pink of condition was received here with great delight.

As wireless by Transocean, the great explorer has been appointed an honorary member of the Berlin Anthropological Society, while many more honours are in store for him.

HAUPTMANN APPEAL

Moves Indefinitely Postponed

Trenton, Feb. 19. In the fight to save Hauptmann from the electric chair, a rift has appeared in the ranks of his defence lawyers on the question of the appeal, all moves in this connection being indefinitely postponed by Mr. Edward Reilly who summoned a conference of junior counsel at the end of the week.

Mr. Reilly does not give any reason for the decision, but Mr. Lloyd Fisher after seeing the prisoner said that he wants no delay in lodging the appeal, adding "I cannot conceive why anyone should wish to adjourn the appeal when the man is scheduled to die in four weeks."

MOTHER'S PLEA
Trenton, N.J., Feb. 18. Governor Hoffman, replying to a cable from Hauptmann's mother from Kamenk, Saxony, pleading for clemency in prison says: "I deeply sympathise with you. Your son's case is to be carried to the Court of Appeals. The Governor of New Jersey at present has no power of pardon. I shall sit as a member of the Court of Pardons that may finally hear this case and cannot express an opinion until then."

MESSAGE FROM AIRMAN

Goljubeff's Tale Of Hardship

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, February 19, 7.30 p.m.)

Archangel, Feb. 19. Word has been received here from the flier Goljubeff who with three companions have been missing since they took off on February 1 from Werchojansk for Archangel and had already been given up for lost.

Wireless message flashed out on Tuesday morning from Idshima 25 miles from Archangel states that Goljubeff made a forced landing in a swamp and left the plane with one of his companions as guard behind. The message adds that Goljubeff himself with two other companions were sick and starving, having meanwhile been forced to subsist on refuse during the 17-day march to Idshima and that it is not certain whether the companion left behind is still alive.

On receipt of the telegram two airplanes immediately started to the rescue of the fliers.

London, Feb. 19. The total value of export of British manufactured goods has risen from £282,000,000 in 1933 to £305,000,000 in 1934. The tonnage of iron and steel goods exported increased by 17 per cent. Railway materials prices showed very marked improvement and exports of machinery were 21 per cent. greater in tonnage; the increase being spread over nearly all main classes. Equally striking was the increase in the number of motor cars and chassis exported which was 19 per cent. higher than the highest figure previously recorded.

BUILDING TRADE
A recent development in the building trade is reflected in the Labour Ministry return which shows that the estimated cost of buildings for which plans were passed by local authorities of 146 principal British towns in 1934 was £93,563,000 against £83,682,100 in 1933.

The French Ambassador in London, M. Corbin, had a lengthy conversation with Sir John Simon. That England and France are not yet in agreement is evidenced by the fact that the diplomatic exchange of opinion between the two countries is to be continued.

MORE QUERIES AT COMMONS

Effect Of Commodity Speculation

London, Feb. 19.

In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. David Grenfell asked whether it was intended to take any action regarding the loss of confidence in the city of London in view of the recent commodity speculation.

Captain Duff Cooper replied that in view of the steps taken to minimise the effect of such speculation, it was incorrect to ascribe thereto the movement of securities to which Mr. Grenfell presumably referred.

As regards further action, the Official Receiver of James Shakespear would be required under the Companies Act to make a full enquiry into the cause of the failure and report whether in his opinion a further enquiry is desirable into the circumstances attending the promotion of the company and conduct of its business.

The Act also provides that the Official Receiver may further report whether in his opinion any fraud was committed in the formation and promotion of the company or by directors or other officers. Government intended to await the result of this enquiry before considering the matter further.

SPECULATION IN TIN

House Of Commons Explanation

London, Feb. 19.

In the House of Commons to-day, replying to Mr. David Grenfell, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister said that the government was watching developments in the tin market, but did not consider any action on their part called for.

One of the advantages of a complete elastic scheme such as the Tin Scheme is that it largely eliminates the opportunity and risk of speculation by providing means for adjusting supply and demand and securing as far as possible the fullest information as regards stocks.

The price of tin remained remarkably stable for many months with the result that he understood speculation was greatly diminished. There was also a scheme under the control of the participating Governments which can be used as an additional safeguard against serious fluctuations in price.

The World Economic Conference has reviewed exhaustively the operation of the Tin Scheme and expressed full approval of the scheme and its operation.

9 women out of 10 live on their Nerves instead of their Food

Is this your time table?

Breakfast. A cup of tea or coffee. A slice or two of toast. No appetite—or time—for more.

Your energy is flagging—but there is such a lot to do. Another cup of tea or coffee!

Lunch-time. Something light, of course. You don't feel like anything more. Besides—there isn't time.

Dinner. This ought to be a substantial meal. But you don't feel equal to it. Maybe you are in a hurry to go out, too.

Bedtime finds you weary and over-tired. You long for sleep—but you fear another restless night.

What a difference you would feel if you took Ovaltine on all these occasions! It makes the lightest meal complete in nutritive value—increases abundant reserves of energy and vitality—and it ensures sound, natural sleep at night.

HURRIED, scanty meals . . . days of rush and bustle . . . sleepless nights . . . nerves always on edge . . . small wonder that so many women look old long before their time.

No woman can look or feel her best if she does not give due care to her dietary. Health, energy, nervous poise—all depend upon proper and adequate nourishment.

You can always be sure that your diet is complete in health-giving nutriment if you make delicious Ovaltine your daily beverage. Ovaltine is in itself a "perfect food." It is supremely rich in nerve-restoring, nourishment, and contains every nutritive element necessary to build up abundant reserves of energy and vitality.

Start every day with Ovaltine at breakfast. Drink it instead of ordinary beverages when you take a light meal, and whenever you feel your energy flagging. Take Ovaltine again at bedtime to ensure deep, refreshing sleep all night long.

But remember—it must be Ovaltine. There is nothing "just as good." Scientifically prepared from the highest quality of malt, extract, creamy milk and new-laid eggs, Ovaltine stands in a class by itself for quality and value. Although imitations are made to look like Ovaltine, there are very important differences. Ovaltine does not contain any Household Sugar. Furthermore, it does not contain starch. Nor does it contain chocolate, or a large percentage of cocoa.

Because of its supreme merit, delicious Ovaltine is the daily beverage of countless thousands of persons, and is regularly used in the leading hospitals, sanatoria and nursing homes throughout the world.

Quality always tells—insist on OVALTINE

COLD MORNING WINS DERBY FOR AUSTRALIANS

IN RECORD TIME

Bobniak Star Also Lowers Record

GOLD PICKER WINS TO PAY $241

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The feature of yesterday's racing was the success of Cold Morning in the Rooty Hill Derby, the pony winning after faring in a bad start, in record time. Earlier in the day, Bobniak Star set a new record for the six furlongs for Australians. Seventeenth of September won the Subscription Griffins Challenge Cup and Gold Picker won the Governor's Cup to pay $241 to his supporters, which was the biggest dividend of the day.

Mr. Needa won a fine race on Sadko in the Peking Plate to beat King's Warden, who, the previous day, had tied with Diana Bay.

During the day, Liberty Bay started, but was barred from the betting figures.

THE KALGAN PLATE (1 MILE)

Mr. Encarnacao won a meritorious race on Invincible Knight in the opening race where he accounted for The Deemster in a good race up the home straight. Strathnairn led for the greater part of the way but faded out of the picture in the straight where he was passed by Bold Major who in turn was passed by The Deemster and Invincible Knight. High Principle was fourth and Beginner's Luck fifth.

THE TIENTSIN STAKES (1 MILE)

Mistake Bay won the second race from a field of sixteen without much trouble. Tammany Hall led over the first half mile, where Mistake Bay took charge, followed by High Honour, Soldier of Victory and Ythan. They finished in that order, only a head separating High Honour from Soldier of Victory with Ythan, only a head behind.

THE CORAL PLATE

Saucy Face, not favourite for the Australians' six furlongs finished amongst the also ran in a race in which Bobniak Star clipped 2-1/5 seconds off the record. Mount Pilatus, who set the pace, could only finish third, Night Star taking second place. The winner paid 10-1 to his supporters in a field of nine starters.

EXCHANGE PLATE

Liberty Bay romped home in front of King's Justice and Sadko in the Exchange Plate. There was not much of a race as King's Justice set 157.1 for the first mile and Liberty Bay passed him to win in 2.26. The others were outpaced.

THE ROYAL NAVY CUP

Bistre won a spectacular race from Delightful Chance in the Royal Navy Cup, where Tiny Star led all the way round followed by Young Chap. Cavalcade, came along at the bend before the home straight, accompanied by Warrington who ultimately finished third.

THE SUBSCRIPTION GRIFFINS CHALLENGE CUP

Lucky Strike was left at the gate in this race but he put up a splendid run to finish three-quarters of a length behind Seventeenth of September, with Belmont Star, who had been second most of the way, third. Touchstone was heavily backed, but beyond leading all the way round into the home straight, he could do nothing, and finished fourth.

THE AMERICAN CLUB CUP

Rose Queen started favourite in the American Club Cup and won by two clear lengths without much difficulty. Pontiac Bay finished second a short head in front of Victoria Hall, who just nosed out Trowbridge from third. Diogenes led at a terrific pace, but was spent at the Rock.

THE GOVERNOR'S CUP

Gold Picker, after throwing Mr. E. L. Tao at the start, redeemed himself by leading all the way home, stalling off a strong challenge from Emergency Call (2nd). Double Chance and Sci Fa, who dead-heated for third place. Mr. D. S. Li rode Double Chance, and the pony went to the post a hot favourite, but he did not seem to run well in the early stages of the race.

THE ROOTY HILL DERBY

Rose Ann was a hot favourite for Australian Derby, but the pony would not start when the gate went up, and together with Cold Morning and Viben Tor, were left many lengths. Cold Morning set out to catch the leaders and did it with a couple of lengths to spare. Meanwhile Derby Day led the field followed by The Bean Goose, Got That and Southern Cross. Got That took the lead at the bend only to be passed by Cold Morning, who won the race in 2.48.4 (Record). The Bean Goose stayed on to take third place.

THE PEKING PLATE

There were only four starters in the Peking Plate, in which King's Warden was made a hot favourite. He lost by two lengths to Sadko, who was starting a second time yesterday. New Star was third and Hatman, who led the main part of the journey, last.

THE RACING STAKES

King's Jubilee was made a favourite for this race and Mr. Marshall made no mistake with his mount winning by a length from Popular Star who was three lengths ahead of Roseau. Estover led most of the way, but was not equal to it at the finish.

THE GYMKHANA STAKES

Oak Bay, a warm favourite for the last race, together with King's Fancy were both unplaced in the last race of day, which fell to Gladiator, who did a mile in 1.58.1. Ribble, Mr. Needa up, took second place and The Tiger just nosed out Oak Bay for the remaining place.

BOXING IN THE SOVIET UNION

Great Progress In Last Ten Years

Moscow.
Boxing at a mass sport was introduced in the Soviet Union only in the years 1922-1923, while before that only comparatively few people systematically engaged in boxing. The All-Union boxing meet of 1934 attracted over 100 boxers, among them being for the first time representatives of the Far East, Western Siberia, Northern Caucasus, Karelia, Saratov, etc. The meet revealed great improvement in technique and style of the Soviet boxers.

Over 20 boxing-schools exist now in the U.S.S.R., including Leningrad, Tiflis, Vladivostok, Odessa, Novosibirsk, and other places. Soviet boxers have repeatedly appeared at international boxing contests, in Great Britain, Turkey, Latvia, Sweden, Germany, Finland, and Norway. Recently Soviet boxers made a fine display in Czechoslovakia and Norway. The Soviet team comprised the best boxers of the U.S.S.R.—all champions in their respective weights. Soviet boxers had three contests in Norway and Czechoslovakia. Final results in Norway were 15-8 in favour of U.S.S.R. team and in Czechoslovakia 23-11, also in favour of the U.S.S.R. A match with the national team of Czechoslovakia boxers ended in a victory for the Soviet boxers with the score 9-7.

NEW STEP IN EMPIRE AIR DEVELOPMENT

Government Delegates For Far East

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 29. The development of Empire air service have been brought a stage nearer by the departure from Croydon, by Imperial Airways, recently of a joint delegation from the Air Ministry and the Post Office to India, Siam, Singapore and Australia. The delegation will consist of:

Air Ministry: Mr. F. L. Bertram, Deputy Director of Civil Aviation; Mr. T. L. E. Guinness, M.P., Parliamentary Private Secretary to the Under-Secretary for Air.

Post Office: Sir Frederic Williamson, Director of Postal Services; Sir Edward Campbell, M.P., Parliamentary Private Secretary to the Postmaster-General.

These delegates will discuss with local experts—ground organisation—including the provision of wireless services, night-flying beacons and landing guides; and co-ordination of the network of Empire air services.

The complete scheme in view will take fully two years to prepare. In the meantime the types of aircraft to be employed will be approved and produced.

The tour of the delegation is in furtherance of the ambitious scheme announced by Sir Philip Sassoon, the Under-Secretary for Air, in the House of Commons on December 20. Then, it will be recalled, he declared that it was proposed to send all first-class mail by air and to increase and speed-up services as follows:

Services Journey

	per week	Time
India	4 or 5	2 days
E. Africa	3	2½ days
S. Africa	2	4 days
Singapore	3	4 days
Australia	2	7 days

Discussions are now in progress between the Air Ministry and the Dominions Governments regarding the details of finance and operation. One such conference held last week at Entebbe by the Governors of Kenya, Uganda, and Tanganyika made it clear that the projected acceleration of service will be very welcome and will find the fullest local co-operation.

Careful Planning Needed. Ground organisation of the routes will involve careful planning and considerable expenditure. Many of the details can only be arranged on the spot and by experts.

In some respects the Australia route, and particularly the Singapore-Darwin-Brisbane section, presents the greatest difficulties. It includes the Timor Sea, over which adverse winds with great velocity are often met.

The ground organisation will include wireless services. Although these have lately been organised over the Singapore-Darwin-Melbourne-Hobart route, considerable improvement will be necessary for the accelerated services.

The delegates will also discuss various postal matters with the local authorities they meet in the course of the tour.

THE KING'S CUP AIR RACE

Longer Course

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 29. The decision of the Royal Aero Club to hold the King's Cup air race this year on a long course embracing the whole Kingdom will be welcomed in British aeronautical circles.

The practice of racing over a few short laps round the Midlands has led to much criticism and dissatisfaction among competitors.

It resulted in many well-known pilots being eliminated early in the race and in the absurdity of slow and obsolete machines getting into the final heat.

The original objects of the race were to test the endurance and navigation skill of pilots, the performance of machines, and the reliability of engines and to advertise the latest types of British machines.

These could be achieved only if a course of at least a thousand miles were flown.

LLOYD GEORGE'S CAMPAIGN

"Cordial Welcome" From Liberals

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 28. "Cordial welcome" is the exact phrase to describe the reception given to Mr. Lloyd George's new campaign by the meeting called by Sir Herbert Samuel of all the Liberal party leaders at Liberal headquarters, and the welcome was unanimous. They agreed with the programme as far as Mr. Lloyd George has outlined it, and they wanted to encourage his campaign. They noted with especial approval that Mr. Lloyd George had put in the forefront of his programme the reduction of the barriers to international trade which, in the view of all Liberals, are a main cause of the present abnormal unemployment.

Let this summary statement should be misunderstood it should be added that the Liberal leaders present did not accept the verbal inspiration of the whole of the Bangor speech. Mr. Lloyd George advocated the ruthless use of tariffs, since we have them, to bring about the lowering of foreign barriers to trade. It is not to be understood that the Liberal leaders, in agreeing with him on the end, agreed with him also about the means, at any rate about such means.

CALGARIE SOLD FOR SCRAP

The Cunard White Star liner Calgarie has been purchased by Messrs. Metal Industries, Ltd., of Glasgow, for about £30,000 and will be broken up at their shipbreaking yard at Rosyth. The Calgarie is a triple-screw vessel of 16,000 tons gross, built at Belfast, by Harland and Wolff in 1918. She has been laid up at Milford Haven since September, 1933.

WHEAT TO CHINA

China and Japan have displayed friendliness to cheap wheat, and their competition during the past fortnight has proved most helpful in stimulating marketing activities in all States. Wheat Co. This demand should continue in a limited way until March, providing Australia is prepared to compete with low Argentine offers. After March this Eastern demand will be governed largely by China's local harvest. The fate of China's crop in March, coupled with the progress of the winter wheat crop in the United States will prove important influences in overseas markets. During

WANT TO FLY

Civic 'Dromes Move

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 29. Glasgow police are becoming air-minded.

The Chief Constable (Mr. P. J. Sillitoe) is seeking permission for himself and other members of the force to travel by air when visiting London and other centres on official business.

The request was brought to the notice of the General Finance Committee of Glasgow Corporation when a letter from the Chief Constable was submitted in which he asked whether it would be possible for himself and other members of the police force to travel by air when they were engaged on official visits to London and other centres at a considerable distance from Glasgow.

It was decided that the sub-committee on accounts should consider the whole question of air travel for the Police Department and for officials of other departments in the Corporation.

The suggestion was made that those who travel to London by air might be permitted to use passes, as is customary at present when travelling by rail.

Air Ports Conference. The possibility of the civic aerodrome question being opened is suggested by a decision of the General Finance Committee to be represented at a conference in London to consider a proposal to form a municipal association for the promotion of civic air ports.

Treasurer Dolan—who, along with ex-Treasurer Laine, will represent the Corporation—expressed the opinion that Glasgow had been wise to delay the question of establishing a civic aerodrome, and would now be able to examine the progress which had been made by other communities and benefit from the result.

FILM SUPPRISES FOR 1935

Clearing The Decks For Action

This 1934 has been a queer film year. So much was promised; so little done. Such very small bangs from the great big drum. To-day there is an air of expectancy; a general sort of idea is forming in men's minds that 1935 is going to be a very big film year indeed. A vintage year.

At least fifty clever men are beginning to suspect that the silence of 1934 was not ominous, but significant. The lull before the storm.

There was the purity campaign. It never really came to very much; finally petered out in a pleasant air of comedy. At first, it was plain that the religious organisations which had started it were puzzled. Then they realised. The film men were on their side!

Hollywood, knowing that the "sex racket" had just about been worked out welcomed this new crusade openly and with joyful protestations of innocence. It was good business, too. The world was talking films again.

And so the purity campaigners, seeing that the enemy wouldn't fight, withdrew in good order. The effect on the box-office of this nine days' wonder was just noticeable, like a shower of rain on a summer's evening.

The significance of the whole thing was the eagerness of the film magnates to set their houses in order. Clearing the decks for action.

It was happening in Britain too. The British film boom came and went. Behind it stalked the British film crisis. Individual films were sensationally successful; the general run product was chilled by the indifference of the public.

At first the big men in the British industry couldn't understand it. They had proof positive that the great British public liked British films. Then why weren't they coming any more? Production costs were soaring to saturation point. It couldn't go on. Three solutions ultimately presented themselves.

1.—Films must be made more cheaply.
2.—The American market must be attacked—and in a big way.
3.—"Programme" pictures must be abandoned as a source of revenue. Only big pictures are making money to-day.

Solutions 2 and 3 provide the keys to British film policy for 1935. British comedians are studying hard to make American audiences laugh; British spectacles will be measured to de Mille and Busby Berkeley standards. [Berkeley invented the mass dancing effects that every one has copied.]

More important still, an urgent talent hunt for writers is now in progress. When it succeeds the troubles of our producers will be over. Good stories are the life-blood of the cinema.

The City is watching all these moves very closely. Probably the most significant event of the year was the attempted merger of the two great film corporations, Gaumont-British and Associated British. That idea started in the City.

One move that did succeed was the entry of the Prudential Assurance into the film business. They now have a very definite interest in the fate and fortunes of Alexander Korda and London Films.

alone, little men, staking their all on a scientific faith. Nineteen-thirty-five will make some men kings; some suicides. Out of this maelstrom of hopes will emerge, within the year—what?

Television? Yes, certainly. That is settled. The film men are concerned now, not with what form television will take or how it will operate. They know that. What they want to know is who will supply the programmes. What will this new public, a mixture of the honest sit-by-the-fire radio listener and the adventurous filmgoer who braves the elements nightly.

Millions will be made and lost on the answer. Film millions. For a great percentage of the first real television programmes will be talkies.

As you sit by your fire tonight and switch on the set—an ultra-short wave set, with a small ground-glass square that will warn to life in a moment—what do you want to see? Garbo? Jack Hulbert? Or Elsie and Doris Waters? The movie magnates would like to know.

The colour films. Nineteen-thirty-five will see them, too. America has technicolour. That is a chemical process; the film is dyed. Good prints are perfect, but their lives are short. And the Americans can't import to England one master print, upon which duty is paid, and copy from it here. They have to import the lot. And the cost of that is dangerously high.

In England they have three young systems. They were conceived years ago, but have not yet been given a real test.

The most interesting is the Hillman process. That came about in a queer way. A firm of apple importers grew tired of having their nice labels washed off the boxes, so they sent for a man to think up a way to print pictures in colour direct on the wood.

The man's name was Hillman; he was an optical mathematician. The experiment was so successful that it was decided to adapt it to motion picture photography. Hillman's invention was bought by Gerrard Industries, who in their turn have gone into business with London Films. Their pioneer colour film, to be made in the spring, will be "Lawrence of Arabia."

The interesting thing about the Hillman process is that it is "additive." The film is photographed black and white. The colour is added by filtering the light from the projector through a lens before it reaches the screen. This lens attachment will be sold or hired to cinema managers. It breaks down (or the audience do not like it) the film can, at a pinch, be run black and white.

The Cinecolour process was thought of many years ago by a Rumanian called Daponte and a Lancashire man called Cox. Until his death they were financed by Sir William Hartley, the marmalade king. Six years ago they found a new patron in Mr. Malcolm Stewart, cement magnate, and now Distressed Areas Commissioner.

Twenty years and more Daponte and Cox have worked. In the New Year Daponte sails for New York to see Mr. William Randolph Hearst. Hearst is interested. And if that deal does not succeed, it is believed that Signor Freddi, Mussolini's film dictator, will look into the matter.

Next year looks good for Daponte and Cox. And not content with all this, the stereoscopic film, which gives an illusion of depth to the screen, is on the way. Negotiations are now proceeding between Imperial Chemical Industries and Gaumont-British over an invention of a Paris banker, M. Zafropulo, whose hobby is higher mathematics.

I have seen stereoscopic film demonstrations, the best that America can do. Amazingly complicated they are. M. Zafropulo's idea is to have two screens, the first one penetrable by certain strengths of light.

LATE NIGHT CABLES

The following cables were received last night through Reuters' Agency:—
London Forecast of the American Market

The Wall Street will in all likelihood see considerable irregularity, until the clarification of the consequences of the Gold Clause Decision.

Cotton:—The Cotton market is expected to open with feverish activity, with brokers adopting a bullish attitude on making up an accumulation of deferred orders, and with replacement of sold out lines.

Rubber: Rubber is anticipated to open up.
Wheat: Wheat will probably be strong. The visible supplies are shrinking; and speculation is expected to resuscitate former bull points.

New York Cables
Stocks: There was good activity on the slightly higher opening tending to diminish on the minor profit-taking downward trend.
Cotton: The market was meeting more cotton, but there was fairly good demand. The market tone was steady.

MR. ANDREW MELLON'S INCOME TAX

Claim For Six Million Pounds

Pittsburgh, Feb. 18.
Hearing of the Government's claim against Mr. Andrew Mellon for $6,000,000 arrears of income tax opened here to-day. Mr. Mellon was described by his attorney as a kindly philanthropist victim of political persecution. His defence is that the Government has not taken stock exchange losses into account in estimating his income. Mr. Mellon listened intently to allegations that he skillfully and deliberately evaded the tax.

BERLIN BOURSE

Berlin, Feb. 18.
The prices on the sharemarket
continued sagging because business remained as quiet as last week.
Even the successful conclusion of which was partly due to the unfavourable foreign trade figures of January. The fixed interest securities market was likewise becalmed, the tendency being indefinite.

SOVIET'S BIG INCREASE IN ARMAMENTSForts, Artillery And Mechanisation

(Special Air Mail Service)

Moscow, Jan. 29.
Reference to Russia's increased armaments—"for the country's defence" was made by M. Molotov, the Soviet Premier, when he made his official report on Soviet affairs to 2,000 delegates to the All-Union Congress of Soviets in the Kremlin's former Throne Room.

Among those present were the present British Ambassador, Viscount Chilton, and his wife and
M. Litvinoff, the Soviet Foreign Minister.

"We have built not a few fortresses on the east and west," he said,
"but such fortresses cannot be moved across our frontiers into foreign territory. We have increased the artillery and technical equipment of our Red Army. Its mechanical equipment has increased fourfold—all this thanks to comrade Stalin's personal attention."

"We have also had to add to the effectives of our Red Army. Our military budget is very much larger. We have had to make sacrifices for the defence of the Soviet and we are sure you will say the party and Government were justified in doing so."

"The Red Army is mainly of worker and peasant stock. Half of them are members of the Communist party. Dangerous alone for the instigators of war, it is the basis of general peace."

Difficult Foreign Relations
Discussing the Soviet's relations with capitalist states, he declared:
"After the intrigue to use the League of Nations as an arm against the U.S.S.R. had collapsed, the Soviet agreed to join it. We consider it wise to collaborate with the League, though some do not esteem it too highly."

M. Molotov raised a cheer for Turkey, but was rather reserved in his references to France. With Poland relations were not satisfactory, but "we intend to continue to try to cement friendly relations with that country."

Relations with Japan and Germany were distinctly difficult.
Herr Hitler had not repudiated the views expressed in his book "My Fight." The speaker's reference to the alleged superiority of the German races aroused wild laughter in this All-Union Congress, where the "Non-Aryan element" is extremely strong.

Negotiations for the sale of the Soviet's Chinese Eastern Railway were apparently reaching a successful conclusion, but some circles in Japan still wanted war—and Vladivostok.

Sir E. Ovey Attacked
The speaker went on to attack
Sir Edmund Ovey, the former British Ambassador to Moscow.

"Our relations with England are generally normal," said M. Molotov.
"If one does not count the incident with Sir Edmund Ovey, who attempted to intervene in our home affairs by interfering in the Metro-Vickers case, and for this he received a rebuff. And anyone wishing to realise our firmness could draw his own conclusions from that."

"This created big complications, but these were liquidated by the mutual efforts of both parties. Sir Edmund Ovey was replaced by another Ambassador, and favourable possibilities exist for developing Anglo-Soviet trade."

In his peroration, which evoked wild applause, M. Molotov also attacked the foreign Press, both
"bourgeois and socialist," for
"squeaking about the shooting of several tens of terrorists," and about a certain Foreign Consul implicated by the military collegium in the affair of the murder of Kiroff, the Leningrad Soviet Chief.

The name and country of this Consul have always been concealed here, and were also withheld by M.
Molotov. But he was alleged to have been M. Bisseneck, of Latvia.

TACT AND CLASSICS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 29.
Mr. E. G. A. Beckwith, headmaster of the Imperial Service College, Windsor, who died suddenly was well-known as an athlete and a classical scholar. He was the author of many school textbooks.

He will be remembered for the quiet tact with which he established the reputation of his school.
He came to it in 1912, when it was founded from the ruins of United Services College, Westward
Hol.

Great unintentional harm had been done to the West Country school by Kipling's "Stalky and Co." The numbers were down.
Mr. Beckwith turned the Windsor school into a prosperous establishment with nearly four hundred pupils.
